Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed March 19, 2008 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant argued that the combination of references does not disclose if the wireless device should attempt to associate with an alternate access point based on the attenuation of signal strength. However, in Shpak in view of Zeira discloses a associated with an access point based on the signal strength from the access point (noted below). In response to applicant's argument that the references fail to show certain features of applicant's invention, it is noted that the features upon which applicant relies (i.e., the relative signal strength of the access point is detected to be lowered from a nominal value) are not recited in the rejected claim(s). Although the claims are interpreted in light of the specification, limitations from the specification are not read into the claims. See In re Van Geuns, 988 F.2d 1181, 26 USPQ2d 1057 (Fed. Cir. 1993).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

Claims 1-3 and 5-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Shpak (US 2003/0207699) and Zeira (US 2005/0047354).

1. Regarding claims 1-2 and 5-6, Shpak discloses a method for use by a wireless device in a wireless communications environment (fig. 1). The method comprises associating the wireless device with a current access point (fig. 1), where access points transmit at less than full power (para. 46, last ten lines). The mobile station sends a request for association with a target access point (para. 42, last four lines).

2. However, Shpak does not disclose ascertaining whether the wireless device should attempt to associate with an alternative access point. Zeira discloses a handoff procedure based at least in part on the automatic collection of attenuation of signal strength of transmissions (para. 22-23; note: path loss) which represents the maximum potential signal strength (para. 14 and 20; note: interference). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art at the time the invention was made to determine handover based on path loss in the invention of Shpak because one skilled in the art would recognize the predictable result that a higher quality communication link is gained when a handover procedure is based in part on path loss (Zeira, para. 22-23; fig. 4, steps 66-70; see KSR Int'l Co. v. Teleflex Inc., 2007).
3. Further regarding claim 3, the combination of Shpak in view of Zeira provides for a path loss (Zeira, para. which is related to the biased distance from an access point which accounts for AP loading (interference).

Allowable Subject Matter

Claim 4 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
